PORTRAYED THROUGH
STORY TELLING, ROLE PLAY
& STUDENT INTERACTION

Educational & Entertaining

HATS Productions is an educational enterprise teaching children about inspirational people who have made a positive contribution to history and whose attributes make them worthy role models for today's students.

The presentations are suitable for middle primary to middle secondary students: they are a blend of story-telling, role play, and students acting the story as it is narrated.

HATS Productions has been developed by John Arbuckle who is a Secondary teacher with over 20 years' experience.

The current presentation available is for John Flynn. It describes how and why Rev. John Flynn contributed so much to the development of outback Australia in relation to ministry, communication, transport, education as well as his most famous contribution to medical services through the Flying Doctor Service.

The presentation also highlights the personal qualities of John Flynn that make him an inspirational role model for students of today: perseverance, vision, compassion, risk taking, faith, and plain hard work.

The presentation on this remarkable Australian uses a mixture of story-telling, role play and student interaction, aimed at upper primary and middle secondary students. The presentation includes a number of interesting and sometimes amusing anecdotes to complement the overall story of John Flynn and the lead up to the Flying Doctor Service.
